

Tots-n-Tech (TNT) is an institute that receives funding from the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Special Education Programs to support the use of assistive technology (AT) and adaptations with infants and toddlers in Part C programs. During the last five (5) years, TNT has focused on conducting research studies to identify actual use and barriers of assistive technology. As part of this effort, TNT developed and validated a self-assessment instrument to be used by programs and states to identify what is being done well and what practices may need improvement with respect to AT.

TNT now needs assistance from individuals responsible for AT in local early intervention programs in Indiana, to provide information about AT services and supports for infants and toddlers. Information will be summarized and used to provide a profile of practices related to AT. Please click on the link below to complete the self-assessment, which is expected to take 10-15 minutes to complete. Thanks for your assistance in providing them with this information.
